The issues on which we advise

We specialise in all areas of child law. These are just a few of the day to day issues with which we deal:

- arrangements for children on divorce
- contact/access of the non-resident parent to children
- residence applications to decide with which parent the children should live
- applications on specific issues on which the parents cannot agree
- financial applications for children including a lump sum to buy capital items
- adoption proceedings
- helping parents and children in care proceedings brought by social services
- court proceedings to stop violence to children and a resident parent

- applications for parental responsibility

Will it be expensive?

The best advice is not expensive-it is priceless. We offer a free first interview to diagnose your problems and plan the way ahead. In all other cases, we hide nothing from you. We tell you what the likely costs are before you incur them, and we keep you informed throughout.
